VOL. LI, No. 204. ENTERED AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER AT THE POSTOFFICE AT MARION, OHIO. MARION, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1928 SIXTEEN PAGES PRICE, THREE CENTS

PRIMARY COST TO REACH HIGH FIGURE HERE

Supplies and Pay of Precinct Clerks Estimated To Run Over $5,400

THAT'S ONLY PART

Other Expenses To Be Added; Cost Per Vote Expected To Be Lowered by Heavy Poll

It will cost Marion county taxpayers approximately $5,431.50 for the August primaries and the preceding registration, according to figures compiled today at the headquarters of the county board of elections.

This figure includes only supplies for the primaries, Aug. 14, and salaries of precinct clerks for the primaries and registration. The cost will be boosted still higher by the salaries of election board officials, clerks to tabulate the vote following the primaries, and the salary of the clerk at election board headquarters.

The cost per vote however, is expected considerably this year, as one of the heaviest votes in the history of the county is expected to be cast.

Ballots Received

Seventeen thousand, five hundred ballots for the primaries were received at election board headquarters this morning. They will be made ready for distribution within the next few days. Nine thousand ballots are Republican and 8,500 are Democratic.

A small army of 432 persons will be required to man the polls on the day of the primary. Salary and mileage bills for these will be $4,100.08. Salary for two persons at each of the 39 precincts in the city for the two days of registration will be $724. Polls will be open for registration on Aug. 10 and 11.

Supplies for the primary cost $215 for the ballots and $492 for 73 sets of poll books.

Force for Tabulation

Unofficial tabulation of the vote on the night of the primary will require the services of the six members of the board of elections besides two others. Four clerks, besides the full time clerk, will be employed for two or three days following the primary to complete the official count.

Four more Republicans have been mailed absent voters ballots. They are Edith J. Decker and Budge C. Decker, of 131 Carhart st., whose ballots were mailed to them in Akron, and Mrs. Beulah Leavens, 191 Wildwood ct., who is spending the summer in Houston, Mo. A Democratic ballot has been mailed to Fred Huberman jr., 445 Delaware av., at Petoskey, Mich.

Those who have voted at election board headquarters since yesterday noon are John Jacoby and Etta Jacoby, 371 South State st., Noah Jones, 230 Franconia st., Oliver Gucker, 196 Orchard st., and Stanley C. Strayer, 288 Forest st., all Republicans, and Marion Conley, 507 Girard av., Democrat.

ATTEMPT TO KEEP PADDOCK FROM MEET

British Delegate to Olympic Committee Makes Charges; Cites Radio Talk

Amsterdam, July 25—An attempt to prevent Charles Paddock, American sprinter, from participating in the Olympic games, has been made by General Kentish, British delegate to the International Olympic committee, it was learned this afternoon.

The accusations were based upon statements Paddock was said to have made in a radio talk and go back to the last Olympiad in Paris in 1924.

Paddock was absent from training at the Hague today, but will be questioned by General MacArthur.

At a meeting of the Olympic executive committee, General Kentish lodged a protest against Paddock, presenting a newspaper clipping purporting to report the radio speech.

The American runner was alleged to have said that the American finalists in the 100 metres at Paris arranged a trick to "beat the gun" in turn forcing the English finalist, Abrahams, to make four false starts thus tiring him out.

Paddock was alleged to have added that, for some reason, the Americans did not execute the scheme, but that the American runners at Stockholm had worked out a similar plan.

HOLD MAN IN DEATH OF MIDDLETOWN CARPENTER

Middletown, July 25—W. J. Lucas, apprehended at West Liberty, Kentucky, yesterday afternoon, was to be returned here this morning in custody of Police Chief William Raymer and detectives, to face charges growing out of the murder of John W. Cox, 52, Middletown carpenter who was lured to a wooded section near here Saturday morning, robbed of $300 and slain. Cox was lured to his death by a forged note purporting to be from City Manager L. A. Waldsee, police stated.

Following a well-balanced five-day program, the chutauqua will come to a close with the final performances next Tuesday night.

The chautauqua this year is expected by officials of the Marion County Chautauqua association to be one of the most successful in the history of Marion, both in regard to the program and financially.

Payments on a majority of the 650 pledges received at the close of last year's chautauqua have been made, according to local officials. The sale of tickets at various business places in the uptown district has been large, they report.

The Rev. William K. START BRICK WORK ON W. CENTER ST.

Surfacing of North Side of Paving Begun by Contracting Firm

Completing the pouring of concrete yesterday afternoon, workmen of P. Drake & Son today started laying brick on the north side of West Center st. The work was started in front of the new C., D. & M. interurban station and will be laid west to the Hocking Valley tracks.

After this section has been completed, the brick will be laid from the interurban station to Oak st. Straw used to prevent too rapid curing of the concrete was being removed yesterday afternoon and sand was being hauled.

The present plan of the company is to complete the north side of the street and throw it open to traffic before construction work is started on the south side. Catch basins and sewer laterals are now being built on the south side of the street. Double catch basins are being installed near the intersection of Oak st and at different points along the street, in order to care for the large volume of water which pours down West Center st., following heavy rains.

Installing of a catch basin in Union st., near Center st, will be regarded by those who have occasion to use West Center st., as an outstanding feature of the improvement. Following each heavy rain the sidewalk at this point has been converted into a miniature river.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR ON PROGRAM HERE

Congressman Begg To Speak at Rotary-Kiwanis Meeting Monday

COOPER NOT COMING

Cancels Arrangements for Talk Before Kiwanis Club Thursday

Congressman James T. Begg, of Sandusky, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, will be the speaker at a joint luncheon of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs to be held at the Harding Hotel, Monday noon, according to an announcemet made today by J. W. Llewellyn, chairman of the program committee of the Rotary club.

Congressman Begg will in all probability be the only gubernatorial candidate to speak in the city before the primary next month, a telegram asking that he be relieved of his engagement to speak before the Kiwanis club, Thursday, having been received from Myers T. Cooper, of Cincinnati, also a Republican candidate for governor.

Plans to have the Cincinnati candidate speak before the club Thursday were made by the program committee of the Kiwanis club several weeks ago, but owing to a request that he speak before a large meeting in Cincinnati, Thursday, Mr. Cooper asked that he be permitted to cancel his engagement here.

Plans for having a large number of guests, including wives of members of the club, made by the Kiwanis club, have been abandoned and the luncheon meeting Thursday will be in the nature of a business meeting.

WOMAN ADMITS BODY THAT OF HUSBAND

Declares She Killed Farmer Because He Was Mean to Her

Wooster, July 25—Chancey Felton, 50, this afternoon confessed to Sheriff Jarvi and Prosecutor Walter Mowery, that he disposed of the body of John Gilbert, Wayne county farmer, after Gilbert's wife, Ruth had murdered him last Saturday night.

Felton admitted he was in the room when the murder took place in the Gilbert's rented farm home near Orrville.

Mrs. Gilbert and Felton were making a full confession to authorities this afternoon, reports said.

Wooster, July 25 — Mystery surrounding the identity of the body of a man with two bullet wounds in his temples and 80 foot of rope attached to his neck found along the county line road Monday was cleared this morning when the man's wife, Mrs. Ruth Gilbert, 32, confessed that the body was that of her husband, John Gilbert, 31, who she had shot to death, according to police here.

Mrs. Gilbert in making her confession, according to police, accused Chancey Felton, 50, of Canal Fulton, her brother-in-law, of inspiring the murder and of disposing of the body.

The confession was made after an all night grilling by police who became suspicious when it was reported that Gilbert was not seen since Saturday night.

Mean to Her, She Claims

"He was terribly mean to me and drove me to do it," Mrs. Gilbert said in explaining her motive.

Her four children, Dorothy, 11, Leonard, 8, Arthur, 6, and Jessie, 3,

PROHIBITION LAW BEFORE BAR MEET

Stricter Enforcement or Repeal Suggested by St. Louis President

Seattle, Wash., July 25—That the prohibition law was to be one of the principal topics of discussion before the convention of the American Bar association, was evident today as their fifty-first annual session opened.

Touching upon bootlegging as related to crime, Jacob Marsh Lashley, president of the St. Louis Bar association, reported:

1—That organizations of criminals in many of the larger cities are being financed by bootleg profits.

2—That public officials are often bribed with profits from the same source.

3—That such conditions are creating disrespect for all laws and the integrity of public officials is being questioned to an alarming extent.

Among other remedies outlined in his report Lashley suggested that either the prohibition laws be vigorously enforced or else repealed.

Steel Wins Over Wood as Boats Renew Romance of Old Racing Days on Ohio

CINCINNATI, July 25—Steel won over wood in what was described today as the greatest steamboat race on the Ohio river, when the steel hulled Chris Greene, Ohio river packet, won its challenge race with the old wooden steamer, Betsy Ann, last night by completing the 26-mile race on the upper Ohio from Cincinnati to New Richmond in two hours and nine minutes, steaming in two boat lengths over its rival.

Throngs of people crowded the banks of the river along the racing course as the two boats fought for the supremacy of the upper Ohio river.

Casting off at exactly 5:00 o'clock from Cincinnati, the Chris Greene which took the lead at the start finished two minutes ahead of the Betsy Ann, veteran racing packet of Mississippi.

A pair of gilded antlers, won by the Betsy Ann in the old river days, was at stake. Those were presented to the Chris Greene at the finish of the race with a statement which read: "The Betsy Ann came from a racing family. For 30 years we have gone un challenged with a final victory. In handing these horns to you we ask that you give them a place fitting with their history and honorable career. We are pleased to hand them to you, our friends of the upper Ohio. Signed, Betsy Ann."

When it appeared that the Betsy Ann would lose, Clate E. C. Reynolds is reported to have taken down the antlers mounted on the ship's bell and remarked casually, "Aw, I never did like the things anyway."

KOON LISTED AS SIXTH MAN IN DEATH HOUSE

First Sign of Worry Over Fate Shown by Foos Slayer as He Arrives at Prison

The calm indifference that Everett Koon, alias Cecil Dean, has maintained since his conviction for the killing of Henry Foos, was apparently broken, at least slightly, yesterday when he entered the gray walls of Ohio penitentiary to wait execution on the morning of Nov. 5.

As Koon was delivered to the penitentiary by Sheriff James Deal and Deputy Harold Monnett he was recognized by officials.

"Hello, Koon, he was greeted."

"What have you on your mind today?"

"I've got a lot on my mind today," was his reply.

Has Had Experience

There was nothing new to Koon in the proceedings preliminary to his confinement in his cell. He has been through it all twice before once at the penitentiary and once at the Mansfield reformatory.

But on both previous occasions Koon gained his freedom on parole. This time, however, unless there is intervention from some higher authority, his "parole" will be a current of electricity sufficiently powerful to carry his death.

Koon's first trip to a penal institution was in 1918, when he was sentenced to the reformatory from an Athens county court on a charge of manslaughter. "A dumbbell prank" in which Koon killed another man was the way he explained the sentence while he was under cross examination in the Foos murder trial here.

Later he went to the Ohio peniten-

HARRISON TO GUIDE CAMPAIGN IN SOUTH

Mississippi Senator To Maintain Headquarters in New York City

New York, July 25—The Democratic national campaign in the solid south will be waged under the personal direction of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, from the national headquarters in New York.

Following announcement by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee that he saw no necessity for an independent southern headquarters, Harrison, a member of the national advisory committee, brought the Democratic candidate renewed assurances that "there is no doubt about the south running true to the Democratic party."

The decision to give Harrison personal direction of the Dixie strategy followed. The Mississippian will spend most of his time in the new national headquarters in the General Motors building here, but will make brief scouting trips whenever he feels them necessary.

"The Democratic party has a fine chance for success than it has had in any general election for a generation. We are going to make the country Democratic this year—a Democratic president and congress is our goal, Harrison said.

Fight Report on Here at 9 O'clock

Radio and Star Party To Give Details of Thursday's Battle

A RADIO description of the Tunney-Heeney battle for the heavyweight crown of the world-in Madison Square Garden will start at 9 o'clock, Marion time, Thursday night over stations associated with the National Broadcasting System.

Preliminary bouts will get under way at 8 o'clock. Graham McNamee and Phillips Carlin, veteran sports announcers, will be at the microphone during the two broadcasts at 8 and 9 o'clock.

To obtain the best results over the radio, Marion fans should see that both the "A" and "B" batteries are in good condition. In case static is bad radio experts suggest that listeners tune in only powerful nearby stations. WTAM, Cleveland, WWJ, Detroit, WEAF, New York, WGY, Schenectady and WSAI at Columbus are stations that should be easily received with little interference.

* * *

HOWEVER, don't forget the The Star will stage a fight party in Star auditorium, starting at 7:30 o'clock. No static or weak batteries will interfere with the reception of the blow-by-blow account of the battle as a special leased wire from the ringside is being held open.

Davis J. Walsh, Star sports correspondent, will be at the press table near the ring to give Marion fans an accurate story of the affair. This story will be relayed by telephone from the printer in the editorial department to the auditorium where an announcer will give the latest dope to fans.

To be certain of getting the complete fight, be at The Star fight party Thursday night. It will be absolutely free.

One Hundred and Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Will Be Observed

Columbus, July 25—Plans for a mammoth celebration of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of Ohio's admission as a sovereign state into the union were being furthered with enthusiasm today following announcement by directors of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce late yesterday that the chamber will assume sponsorship of the Ohio Progress exposition to be held at Columbus auditorium, from Oct. 24 to Nov. 3.

Every Ohio city, through its Chamber of Commerce, will be invited to exhibit and invitations will be sent out simultaneously so that no single city will have any advantage in selection of space or display of its products and each city will have equal reservation rights, the announcement stated.

SHERIFF DEAL SEEKS ACTION IN YALE CASE

Goes to Detroit with Extradition Papers for Former Marion Woman

TO HOLD HEARING

Submission of Affidavits to Michigan Governor Necessary To Provide Evidence

Armed with extradition papers, honored yesterday by Gov. A. Vic Donahey, Sheriff James Deal left early this morning for Lansing, Mich., where he will apply to the Michigan governor for authority to return Mrs. William S. Yale, of Detroit, to Marion to answer charges of kidnaping her four-year-old son, by a former marriage, from the home of Paul Hoch, the child's father, here more than two weeks ago.

Mrs. Yale has refused to waive extradition. Before the Michigan governor will grant Sheriff Deal permission to return her to Marion it will be necessary to hold a hearing at which affidavits filed here will be introduced as evidence.

Mrs. Yale, together with her husband and the child, is being held by Detroit officials.

The sheriff was accompanied by Deputy Harold Monnett.

Mr. Schaffner left in an automobile early this morning for Toledo where he was expected to board an airplane at the flying field to carry him to Chicago. He plans to return by the same route and be present when the store opens Thursday morning.

While in Chicago, Mr. Schaffner will inspect the Majestic radio factory. His firm recently obtained the local agency here for the Majestic radio.

PROHIBITION TO BE REAL ISSUE WITH HOOVER

Republican Nominee To Come Out for Enforcement of Eighteenth Amendment

WILL NOT "PUSSYFOOT"

Feels That Circumstances Demand He Make Dry Law Part of Campaign

Palo Alto, Cal., July 25—Prohibition will be made a definite issue in the approaching presidential campaign with Herbert Hoover taking the dry side of the argument in his speech accepting the Republican nomination, it was learned here today on good authority.

The Republican nominee, who virtually has completed his speech, will come out strongly for enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and place himself on record as favoring a further test of prohibition. This will bring him into direct conflict with the known position of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic rival for the presidency.

Prohibition will become a real issue, one of his closest advisers said, because Hoover will not "pussyfoot" on the subject. His declaration on prohibition, it was said, will be far more emphatic than in his reply to the famous questionnaire of Senator William E. Borah last spring, in which the nominee appeared to take a middle-of-the-road attitude.

Cannot Avoid It

Hoover does not desire to make prohibition an issue, according to his advisers. The circumstances, however, are such that he cannot avoid it. He will simply speak his mind, it was said, but by doing so he undoubtedly will create an issue that may dominate the campaign in the east.

The Republican nominee will make Republican prosperity and a continuance of Republican efficiency in governmental affairs his outstanding issues. He will stress both beyond all other issues but the decision as of their importance naturally lies with the voters.

Some of the high spots of his speech, which will be his interpretation of the Kansas City platform and therefore the Republican campaign book, will include:

1—A careful analysis of the farm problem and a definite constructive program for alleviation of farm troubles.

No High Tariff Claim

2—A specific declaration in favor of the Republican protective tariff, couched in such language as to place the nominee definitely in the "high tariff" class of political economists.

3—A demand for a strong national defense, possibly even to the extent of

SLAYER OF OBREGON MAY NOT LOSE LIFE

Late General's Backers Believe Toral Only Tool of Laborites

Mexico City, July 25—Possibility that Jose De Leon Toral, slayer of President-elect Alvaro Obregon, may escape death for his dread homicide today.

Leaders of the Obregonista faction believe that Toral was only a tool in the hands of the Laborites. In a public statement they demanded the removal of all Laborite officials from office, saying that members of this minority party had played upon Toral's fanatical religious views in such a way as to bring on the slaying.

In the same statement they said that removal of the Laborites would be true justice and that the death of the assassin was not necessary.

Meanwhile the police still are searching for Manuel Trejo, who Toral confessed, uttered him up to kill Obregon and put the death weapon in his hand. The deposed Laborite secretary of industry and commerce, however, still is in hiding.

River Choristers To Give Special Program

SUMMER RADIO FEATURE

A half-hour of "cool" selections will be broadcast by the River Choristers over the National Broadcasting system beginning at 7 o'clock Thursday night.

Songs of the far north and selections which still contain exhilarating reminders of green banks and winding streams constitute their program.

"Song of the Musk Ox" and "Hunnewahlma," follow immediately after their familiar opening song. In further sharp contrast to climbing thermometers are special arrangements of the "Skating Carnival" and "Winter Song."

With one exception, the program of the Hoover orchestra and Honeymooners over the National broadcasting system at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night will be an all-popular one.

The one exception is Dvorak's "Slavonic Dance." Among the popular numbers will be heard "I'd Rather Cry Over You," and "Louisiana."

The Michelin Men, a quartet and orchestra, will present a program of light numbers over the National broadcasting system at 9 o'clock Thursday night.

"Blue Grass," "Musica Prohibita," "Sweet Lorraine" and "Fascinating Vamp" will be orchestral selections. The quartet will present "Beautiful," "Twilight Shadows are Falling," "Blue Over You" and "Breezin' Along with the Breeze."

Lortzing's overture to "Zar and Zimmerman" will open the program of slumber music to be broadcast over the National Broadcasting system at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

The World's BIGGEST
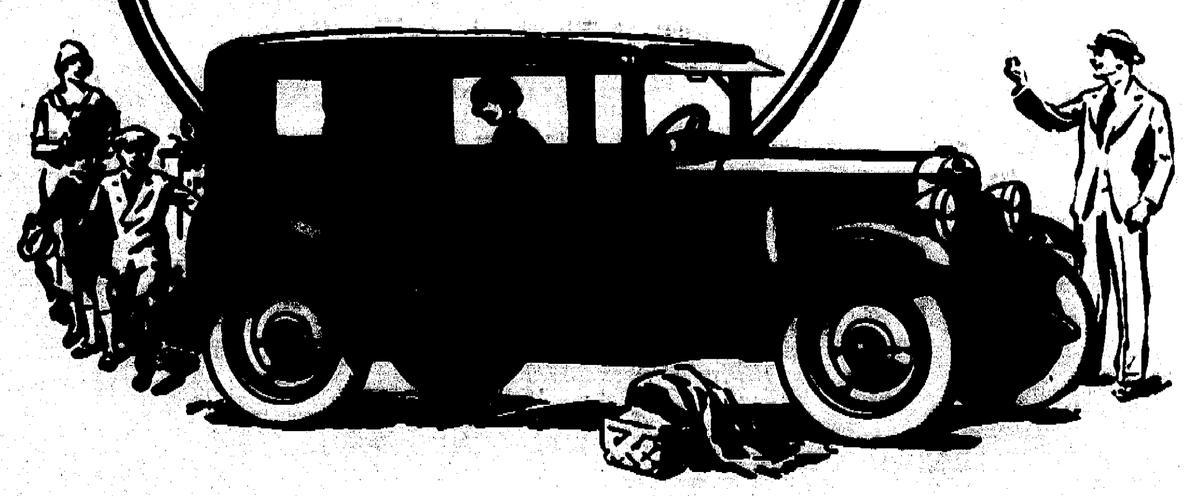
Automobile at such low prices



THE sensational popularity of the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is due in great measure to the fact that it is the biggest automobile in the world available at such low prices.

It is built on a wheelbase of 107 inches—and on this longer wheelbase Fisher craftsmen have designed bodies of marvelous beauty with wide, deep-cushioned seats . . . ample head and leg room . . . and generous seating capacity.

Translated into terms of comfort, safety and utility—this additional size is of vital significance in the low-price field. Writ of Mandamus Issued in Morrow County School Dispute

ACTION INVOLVES THREE DISTRICTS

Transfers of Property Sought in Suits Filed by Citizens

OPPOSE BOARD'S PLAN

County School Authorities Given Until Aug. 1 To Comply with Court Ruling

Mt. Gilead, July 25—Judge P. L. Williams of the common pleas court of Knox county, acting in place of Judge W. P. Vaughan of the local bench who is now in Colorado, ordered a writ of mandamus directed against the board of education of Morrow county to transfer property in Quakerdom school district to centralized school districts by Aug. 1 or show cause for failure to comply.

This order followed the filing of two mandamus ctions in the common pleas court here late Monday.

Three Districts Involved

Three districts under contention had been formerly transferred by the board following petitions from Quakerdom district. The two other districts Fairview and Bloojay were included in the transfer because the state law provides that districts having less than 10 pupils "shall" be transferred to other districts. However, a petition in remonstrance to the action was filed by landowners from the three districts, which attempted to bring the three districts under one, all of them being located in Gilead township. The remonstrance was granted and the former transfers were rescinded.

In spite of the fact that a majority of the landowners in Quakerdom district were in favor of the transfer, there was not a majority from the three districts taken as a unit.

List of Petitioners

The petitions were filed under the caption of: The State of Ohio ex rel Elizabeth I. Bennett, W. A. Stofer, J. D. McWhirk, against Robert Mosher and others as the county school board. This petition asked that the property of the individual plaintiffs all from Quakerdom district, be transferred to the Mt. Gilead special school district.

The other petition was filed by Henry McWhirk, Glenn Jackson and Edward Holt, who ask to be transferred from Quakerdom district to Cardington village school district. These are the petitions that were filed in the common pleas court.

These petitions were filed in the common pleas court following the refusal of the county board at their Saturday meeting to transfer the property of the plaintiffs in the petiton to the Mt. Gilead and Cardington districts. These petitions for transfer were filed during the course of the meeting together with the acceptance of the Mt. Gilead school board and the Cardington village school board.

WHILE second place teams were defeated, Calvary is certain of at least a tie for the championship of Sunday School League No. 1 and by winning one more game will cinch the pennant.

St. Mary's moved into second place last night when the Irish defeated Epworth Seniors 6 to 2 in a fast contest. Second place had been held by the Seniors.

Christians were knocked out of all chances of coming under the wire with the league winners when the 1927 champions trounced them, 8 to 2. A big first inning in which six runs were scored won the game for Calvary.

Wesley moved up to a tie with Epworth Seniors for third place by defeating Trinity, 3 to 2. Trinity led until the sixth inning when Wesley scored two runs knotting up the count. One run in the last frame put the game on the wagon.

Epworth whitewashed the Presbyterians 4 to 0 in a game of no importance to the league standings. It merely kept the Presbys on the losing side of the ledger which is nothing unusual this year.

It would take an earthquake to stop the Calvary team at the present time. Three more games remain to be played and it is only necessary to win one of these to cop the flag. This is the only league where the outcome of the race is more or less certain.

Last night's scores:

Wesley ..... 000 002 1—3
Trinity ..... 000 200 0—2
Lasley and Trowbridge; Jones and Morgan.

Christian ..... 010 001 0—2
Calvary ..... 000 002 x—8
Gruber and Young; Rank and McClintock.

Epworth ..... 013 000 0—4
Presbyterian ..... 000 000 0—0
Snyder and Wilson; Walker and Koppen.

St. Mary's ..... 002 021 1—6
Epworth Seniors ..... 100 000 1—2
Frericks and Andrews; Rice and Pickerel.

EDUCATION?

Experience Wins When College Youth Is Keyed

Boston, July 25—The age old discussion of education and non-education in a prize ring was the talk of the town today as a result of the Maloney-Lamar battle at Braves field last night in which the University of Virginia toppled before the onslaughts of the college of experience for the benefit of 21,000 folks, Maloney, on his way, as he admits, to the top, big money and a Sharkey fight, knocked out the former amateur champion from the southern college in the third round.

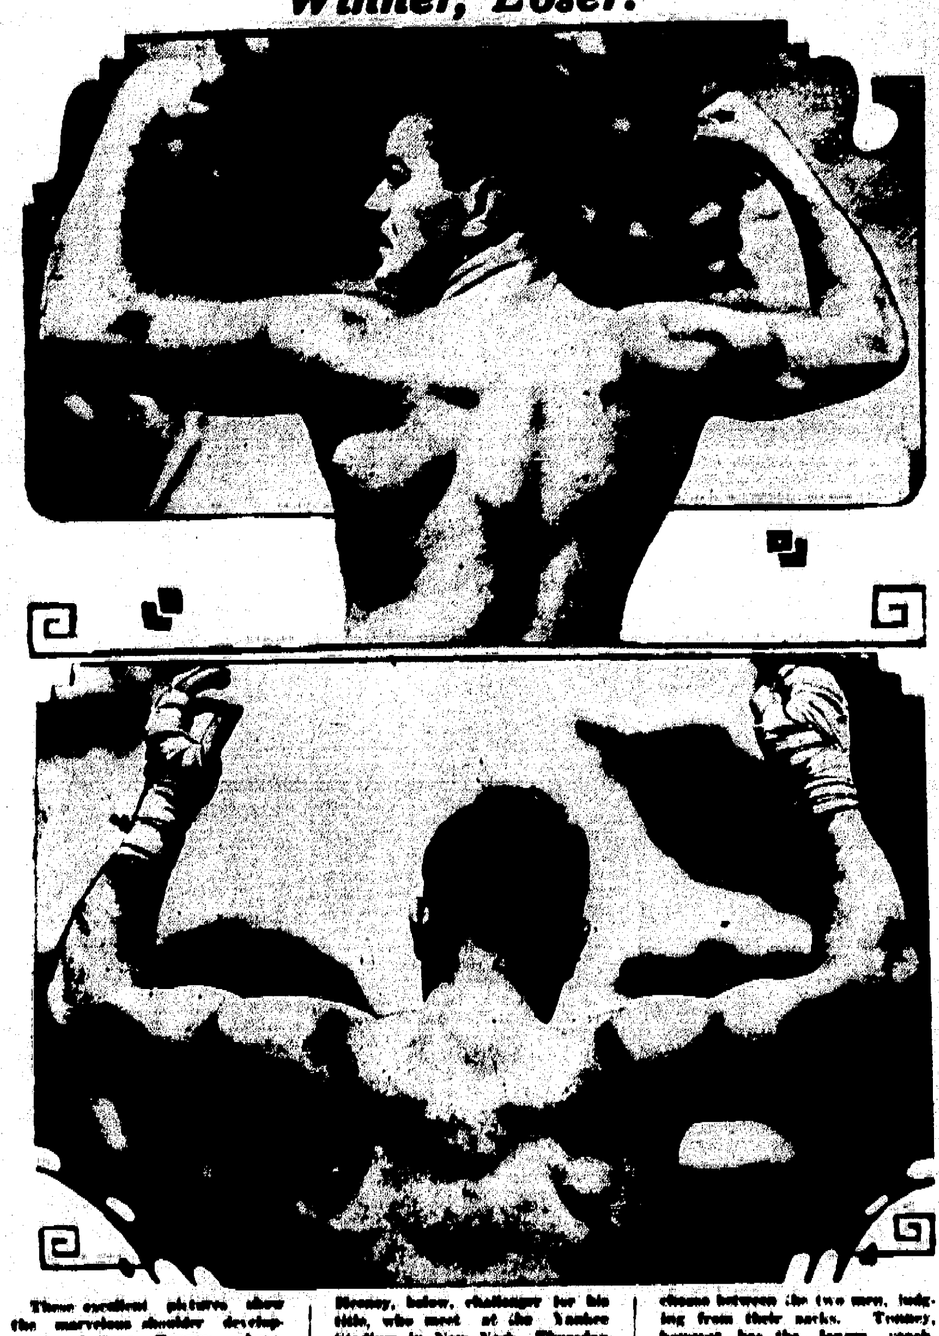
Expect 200 Horses at Meet

Winner, Loser?



These excellent pictures show the marvelous shoulder development of Gene Tunney, above, champion of the world, and Tom Heeney, below, challenger for his title, who meet at the Yankee Stadium in New York Thursday night. There isn't a great deal to choose between the two men, judging from their necks. Tunney, however, has the longer reach, which will help him tremendously.

GRATTAN BARS WILL BE FEATURED HORSE OF LOCAL RACE CARD

Work Started To Get Track in Shape for Opening

AT least 200 horses of Grand Circuit calibre are expected to take part in the Marion races to open here next Monday afternoon, according to Frank Foster, secretary of the Marion Driving association.

Included in this list will be the famous Grattan Bars, the sensational Canadian horse. Behind the driving of Fleming, Grattan Bars, has won $25,000 stake races at Toledo, Windsor, Conn., and Kalamazoo, Mich.

Purses totaling $9,000 will be offered during the five days of the Short Stop Circuit meet here. Four events will be run daily.

Work is under way at the oval at the Marion fair grounds getting the track in condition for the premier racing event of the season. Officials of the meet will arrive here Sunday afternoon and Monday morning.

Foster believes that this year's races will be the greatest held in Marion. Grand Circuit trotters and pacers are establishing some new records through the country and most of these will be here for the meet. The local secretary is spending considerable time in getting all plans whipped into shape. Races will start promptly at 2 o'clock each day.

Horses will begin arriving here the latter part of the week. Several stables of racers have been quartered at the local tracks for several days.

Some of the better known drivers to show here are Chiles, Morrow, Cress, Parker, Hartman, Valentine, McMahon, Ray and Mallow.

PLANE PICKED

Sikorsky Amphibian To Be Used for Tunney's Trip

Curtiss Field, N. Y. July 25—The dual-motored Sikorsky amphibian in which Gene Tunney will come to New York tomorrow from his training camp, will leave here at 3 p. m. this afternoon for Speculator, N. Y., where the camp is situated.

The plane will be piloted by Bill Winston, of the Curtiss flying service. C. V. Bobb, millionaire sportsman and friend of Tunney, and a mechanic will ride as passengers.

The champion will land in the plane about noon tomorrow, either at the Battery or 86th st., New York City.

PECK SIGNED

Roger To Manage Indians Again Next Season

Cleveland, July 25—Roger Peckinpaugh, manager of the Cleveland American league baseball club, will pilot the Indians again in 1929.

Announcement to this effect was made late Tuesday by President Alva Bradley, who stated that Peckinpaugh was signed at this time to encourage him to forget the poor showing of the Tribe this season, and to enable him to start rebuilding immediately for next year.

"We are satisfied with Peck's work this season," President Bradley declared. "We feel that he has done all possible with the material at hand and we have confidence that, given better material, he will produce a winning team."

Among the 900 pupils in one Dundee school are fourteen pairs of twins, eighteen girls and ten boys.

Extra Base Hitting Kee Cards at Head of Leag

New York, July 25—Extra base hitting is keeping the St. Louis Cardinals at the head of the National league pack. Sunny Jim Bottomley, Chick Hafey and George Harper are the club's leading home run artists. Four-base clouts by Bottomley and Hafey gave Wee Willie Sherdel a 2 to 1 decision over Jess Petty, Brooklyn southpaw, when the Cards opened their eastern invasion yesterday. The Red Birds are now four games in front of the Cubs.

Bottomley's homer gave him a total of 21 for the season, one less than that of the league leader, Hack Wilson. Hafey's was his fifteenth and his sixth in three weeks.

A home run by Master Melvin Ott with two on base was the deciding blow in New York's 6 to 3 win over Pittsburgh.

With the elongated and erudite Eppa Jeppa Alpha Omega Rixey yield six hits and his infielders click four double plays, the Reds home to a 5 to 1 triumph o Phils.

Jack Russell, Boston pitche just congratulating himself on the Yankees when the champions ed him off the mound in the scored four runs and beat the R 5 to 3.

City Calm About Fight

GOLDEN TOUCH OF TEX RICKARD FAILS

Gate Will Not Cross Over Million Dollars Thursday Night

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, July 25—New York was calm to the point of virtual neutrality this morning on the eve of its first heavyweight championship prize fight since 1923. Prominent hotels in the Broadway district report no unusual volume of business. Neither of two great railway systems, the New York Central and the Pennsylvania, has discovered a necessity for running special trains to the scene. Ticket speculators are non-active.

By this time, the fact virtually has been established that Tex Rickard's golden touch is to fail him for once; that it will produce no bonanza tomorrow night. If his show plays to a crowd of better than 55,000 and his gate receipts yield better than a million dollars, he will be doing all that a reasonable man can expect.

Needs Million To Profit

He will need slightly more than a million to return even a tacit profit on the transaction, for he has guaranteed Tunney $525,000, Heeney $100,000, the rental of the Yankee Stadium and other expenses may reach $150,000 more and he must pay the new federal tax himself out of the total receipts.

When Dempsey and Carpentier met in 1921 and Dempsey and Firpo in 1923, special trains bore groaning loads of fans to the scene from all sections of the land and hotels were forced to double up with their guests almost indiscriminately. But this time Dempsey is no more; he will be only a spectator. And so hotels like the Pennsylvania, Astor, Belmont and others report that overnight reservations are just slightly beyond the custom of transient applications and the railroads say they have decided their regular trains can accommodate the traveling public.

No Special Trains

According to its traffic department, the Pennsylvania originally planned the running of fight specials from various cities but abandoned the idea "because indications are that travel tomorrow isn't what we were led to expect it would be." The New York Central likewise declared that it had found the running of special trains unnecessary, but that special cars, attached to its regular trains, were being routed into New York from Buffalo, Toledo, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago.

Homers Tuesday—Bottomley, Cardinals; Hafey, Cardinals; Ott, Giants.

The Leaders—Ruth 40, Hack Wilson 22, Bottomley 21, Gehrig 19, Bissonette 18, Hornsby 16, Hauser 15, Hafey 15.

League Totals—National 378, American 330.

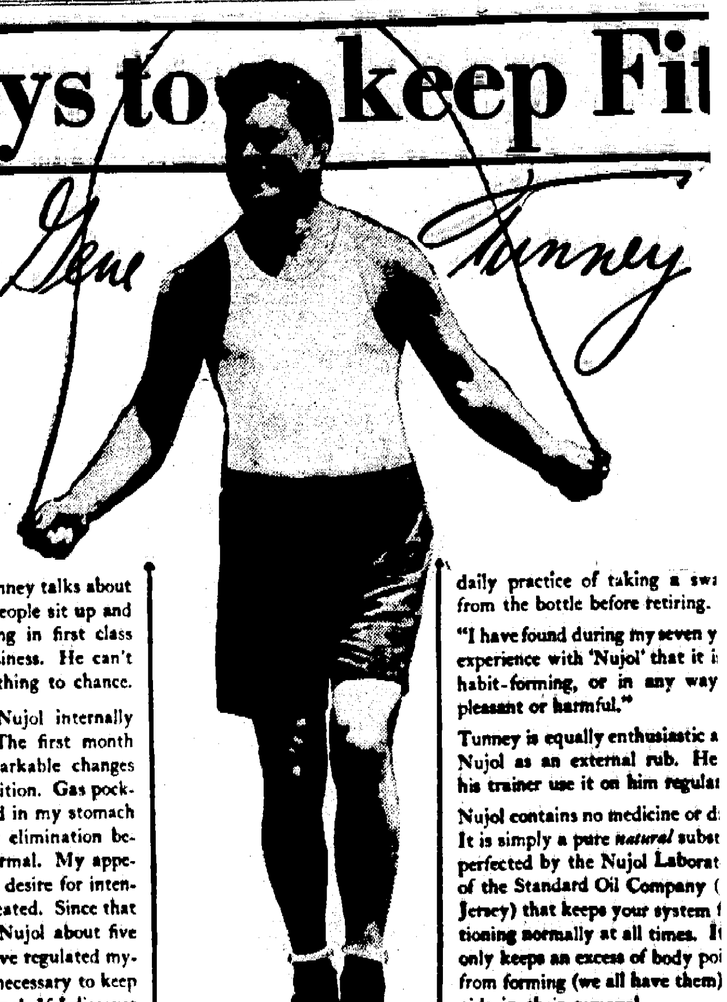
Ways to keep Fi

By Gene Tunney



WHEN Gene Tunney talks about keeping fit, people sit up and take notice. Keeping in first class condition is his business. He can't afford to leave anything to chance.

"I started taking Nujol internally seven years ago. The first month Nujol brought remarkable changes in my physical condition. Gas pockets no longer formed in my stomach and intestines. My elimination became active and normal. My appetite increased and a desire for intensive training was created. Since that time I have taken Nujol about five nights a week. I have regulated myself to the amount necessary to keep my elimination normal. If I discover that I have taken an excess I stop its use for a couple of days, when I renew my daily practice of taking a swa from the bottle before retiring.

"I have found during my seven y experience with 'Nujol' that it i habit-forming, or in any way pleasant or harmful."

Tunney is equally enthusiastic a Nujol as an external rub. He his trainer use it on him regular Nujol contains no medicine or d It is simply a pure natural subst perfected by the Nujol Laborat of the Standard Oil Company (Jersey) that keeps your system tioning normally at all times. It only keeps an excess of body poi from forming (we all have them) aids in their removal.

Nujol will keep you in first-c shape, too. Try it, won't you?

Gains on Stock Market Attract Plenty of Outside Buying

MOTORS AND STEEL FEATURES OF TODAY

American Can and Wright Aero Show Increases; Former Had Dropped

OUTLOOK IMPROVING

Responsible for Optimistic Feeling; Car Loadings Better

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, July 25—Strength in leading industrials, motor shares and steel issues featured the stock market today. Gains ranged from a fraction to over four points and attracted plenty of outside buying. At 1 o'clock this afternoon American Can, which had been easing off lately, was selling 2¼ higher than last night's close at 155¾ and Wright Aero had advanced to 156, a gain of 4½ points.

Radio corporation, with a 3½ point gain to 170½, and Westinghouse Electric up 2⅜ at 95⅞, were also conspicuous in the forward movement. General Electric was another strong stock selling 3¼ higher at 150¾ a two point gain to 171⅞ was made by Montgomery Ward. American Can, Coca Cola, Paramount-Famous-Lasky were also strong, the latter stock selling up 1⅝ to 33⅞.

Buying of United States Steel was impressive and it advanced 1⅝ to 146⅜. Leading independents and other steel issues were strong too, Bethlehem gaining 1½ to 57½ and Gulf States steel moving up 1¼ to 64. The improved conditions in the steel industry provided the stimulous for the demand for these shares.

The optimistic feeling in the market was attributed to the improved business outlook reflected in the increased car loadings and the continued ease in call money which renewed at 5¼ per cent.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKETS

Chicago, July 25—Wheat, after a display of a little strength, broke sharply, but then came back to a strong finish with a good net advance. Rye, too, was up, but corn was heavy until late in the session when it recovered a good part of earlier losses.

At the end wheat was up 2 to 2⅝c; corn was down ⅝ to 2⅞; oats were unchanged to ⅝ lower; rye was up 1¼ to 2.

Mahmoud Samy Pasha, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of his majesty the king of Egypt, and A. Moursi, second secretary of the Egyptian legation, were visitors on the floor of the Board of Trade, but that is not supposed to have affected the market.

Undoubtedly familiar with the history of Joseph's doings in the grain business in Egypt during biblical times, the visitors probably saw something reminiscent in the July corn deal here. July corn only held its own during most of the session and showed a slight loss at the close.

September Corn Breaks

But the September future broke sharply, selling down to a low of 93 cents before it came back on a smart rally late in the day. December corn broke down into the bid price, but later recovered a cent of its loss.

There were undoubtedly a heavy dumping overboard of long corn accompanied by general short covering. The tendency in the pit was to become bullish on corn on the break. Many observers think that the December future has sold low enough.

They may be correct, but to the writer it is hard to see any reason for buying December corn at this time with the crop prospect that she shows. It may have a somewhat further sally today, but on early advances is likely to meet with selling.

Strength in the July corn does not appear to be a basis for expecting strength to last in the other deliveries. Yesterday such corn was cornered at one time at 7½ cents under the July corner. The result was that the July sold 20 cents over the December and 10 cents over the September.

Another objection to automobile accidents is that the damage could well wait a long time to be paid for. Unless, of course, they prefer to deal with a large financial concern where courtesy, efficiency, individual service and friendship, individual service can be counted on before trouble and after it, if need be.

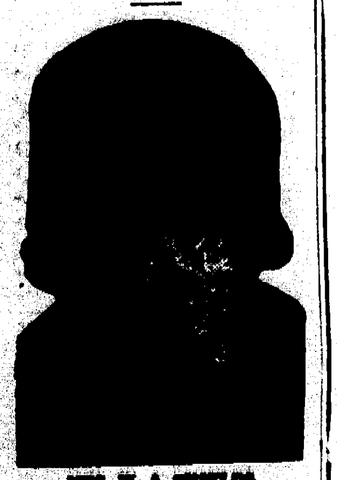
Konjola Brought New Health All Over Her System

Rheumatism And Kidney Trouble Kept Her In Constant Misery.



MRS. W. A. SHIELDS

"Konjola made such a wonderful change in my health after a year of suffering that I will always praise this medicine to others," said Mrs. W. A. Shields, 238 North Sixth St., Steubenville, Ohio.

"I was a victim of rheumatism that settled in my back and arms, and it was impossible for me to do my housework. There was a dull, aching pain across my back from sluggish kidneys and I had to rise several times during the night. In the morning I felt worse than when I went to bed.

"Konjola was what I always needed and when I finished the full treatment there was not an ache or pain in my body. The swelling had disappeared and every trace of rheumatism was gone. My kidneys are stronger and I can sleep through the entire night without rising once. The pains across my back are also ended. All this is due to Konjola and that is my reason for indorsing it to others."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy, and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

SMITH SPEEDS WORK TO PREPARE ADDRESS

Hopes To Get State Affairs in Shape Within Next Week

Albany, N. Y., July 25—With his [illegible] ceremony set for Aug. 22, Gov. Al Smith today was preparing to put state affairs in such shape that for the next week or 10 days he can devote himself almost exclusively to the preparation of the address he will deliver in formally accepting the Democratic presidential nomination.

The governor is finding that the preparation of an address in which he must deal exclusively with national issues is much more exacting.

The governor already has made his position clear to the country on what are expected to be two of the chief issues of the coming campaign—prohibition and farm relief. The day after he was nominated he sent a telegram to the Houston convention declaring, in substance, that he felt that the Volstead law should be modified. Subsequently he wired the head of the Indian Farm bureau that in the event of his election he would immediately call a conference to work out a concrete plan for farm relief for submission to congress.

The notification ceremony will take place on the steps of the capitol and will be broadcast through a chain of 90 radio stations.

It was reported today that Franklin D. Roosevelt, who placed the governor in nomination at the Houston convention, may be asked to preside. Senator Key Pitman of Nevada, chairman of the notification committee, will formally acquaint the governor with the fact that he has been nominated.

VIOLENT QUAKES IN C. A. ARE PREDICTED

Famous Italian Observer Declares Earth Passing Through Route Crisis

London, July 25—Violent earthquakes may be expected in Central America and upon the northeastern rim of the Asiatic continent between now and the end of this month, according to the famous Italian earthquake forecaster, Prof. Raffaele Bendandi, director of the geo-dynamic observatory of Faenza.

In an interview published here, Professor Bendani declares that the earth at the present time is passing through one of its route crises, and that an earth storm is at hand.

He further predicts violent quakes in Palestine and the Greek archipelago and lighter ones in Crimea and Italy.

"All these shocks," the professor was quoted as saying, "are but the prelude to still greater and wider reawakening of the subterranean forces which has been under way for some time, and will reach its climax next autumn with violent manifestations in the south of Europe."

BATHE IN NUDE

Sea Bright, N. J., July 25—Nude bathing is permitted here between the hours of 9 p. m. and 6 a. m. but will be prohibited Saturday when a new ordinance goes into effect. It was adopted after the borough councilmen learned that girls had been bathing in the nude here recently at night.

GIRL READY TO AID TROUBLED BODENHEIM

Barbara Young Says She Is Only One Who Can Save Poet

New York, July 25—Characterizing herself as the panacea for the multitudinous ills besetting Maxwell Bodenheim, blond Barbara Young today waited for the eccentric poet of Greenwich Village to emerge from his hiding and be healed.

"I'm the only one who can save him from his complexes," Barbara explained with the air of a physician sure of her medicines.

Barbara said he broke an appointment with her when he fled to escape notoriety incident to the river suicide of Virginia Drew, 24, another literary client of the poet-novelist. He wanted advice under those trying circumstances.

Now she hopes he will make a fresh engagement and lay bare his troublous spirit. Bodenheim variously is reported to be hidden in the village, in Maine, in Chicago and in Canada.

No one has been discovered who has laid eyes on him since Sunday when Dr. Martin Loeb overtook his 17-year-old daughter, Gladys, still another worshipper of Bodenheim, as she was bound for the Bodenheim shack at Provincetown Art Colony.

Gladys is under close watch of her mother today in a Catskill mountains village. The Loebs have vowed she is through with Max Bodenheim forever—whether Gladys takes a negative attitude or not.

FLIGHT IS OFF

Ministry of Marine Orders Flier To Abandon Attempt

Paris, July 25—A defective motor has ended the transatlantic flight of Lieut. Paulin Paris who came down in the harbor at Horta, The Azores, while attempting a voyage to New York.

The ministry of marine, it was learned today, ordered Lieutenant Paris to cancel the flight and remain at Horta until a French warship can put into the harbor to take the seaplane Frigate on board. The plane will be brought to France for the installation of a new motor and it is possible that another attempt will be made later in the summer.

Officials of the ministry of marine feared to allow Lieutenant Paris and his two companions to continue on their flight after making temporary repairs upon the damaged motor.

The Frigate hopped off at Brest, France, on Sunday, reaching Horta on Monday morning. The plane had been lifted upon the breakwater at Horta and the airmen were making repairs when the order arrived from Paris to discontinue the flight.

peeked through the barred jail corridor as police questioned their mother.

Mrs. Gilbert stoutly denied any relations with Felton. Maintaining that Felton urged her to "get rid of" her husband because he failed to provide clothing for her and her children, Gilbert lived on a farm and made his wife and children do all the work, Mrs. Gilbert said.

She also accused her husband of "hanging around" a member of Felton's family.

Felton, so far, has not made any statement to police, declaring only, "I didnt shoot him."

To File Charges

The detailed confession was not made public.

Gilbert was shot in his home Saturday night, according to reports of the woman's confession.

Prosecutor Walter J. Mougey, of Wayne county, said he would file first degree murder charges against Mrs. Gilbert and Felton today.

Gilbert was a farmer and also worked in the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron.

Mrs. Gilbert said that Felton must have attached the rope to her husband's neck, as she declared she only did the shooting. The shooting is said to have taken place in their farm home near Orrville. After the shooting Mrs. Gilbert said she gave the body to Felton who, she declared, must have tied the rope around the man's neck and placed it in a guny sack as it was found.

COOLIDGES TO TOUR YELLOWSTONE PARK

President May Return East for Several Weeks at Home

Superior, Wis., July 25—The magnificent scenery, invigorating air and fine fishing of Yellowstone national park will lure President Coolidge away from the Brue river summer White House between the tenth and fifteenth of August, International News Service learned today.

Tentative plans have been in the making for the past few days for a departure from here between those dates for Yellowstone. A return to Cedar Island lodge for the remainder of the season is problematical. The Coolidges may tour the park in the usual brief fashion and come back to the northwoods of Wisconsin, or they may arrange for a more protracted stay and then go straight east to Plymouth, Vt., or Northampton, Mass., for several weeks before returning to Washington.

The unusually enjoyable time Mr. Coolidge had during last year's tour of the park, plus the pleas of Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, are understood to have prompted the decision to journey away from the Pierre estate on the Brule. The president fished constantly, and with great success, all of the five days he was in Yellowstone in the summer of 1927, while Mrs. Coolidge and John found pleasure in the hotel life of the park system after weeks of virtual isolation in the woods.

Also, a nasal ailment known as rose fever of the asthmatic order, troubles the executive annually and the attitude of the park figures to afford relief.

Six in Death House

Koon's entry into the penitentiary brought the population of death row to six, according to prison officials. Another murderer, Charles (Stanley) Hoppe, the Toledo child slayer and alleged "clubber" is expected to take a cell beside Koon within the next few days. Hoppe has been sentenced to take the "death stroll" on Nov. 26, just 21 days after the date set for Koon's execution.

Execution of five others in death row is being held up by court action. They are John Bradshaw, Columbus, Roy Freeman, Dayton, John Rucker, Cincinnati, Joseph Weaver, Cleveland, and John Salo, Akron.

One more fight is to be made to save Koon's life, according to his attorney, Homer E. Johnson. A petition of appeal will be filed within the next few days with the district court of appeals at Lima, Johnson said today. Even though the doomed man's last fight may not be successful it will probably result in a temporary stay of execution according to the usual procedure. After the petition has been filed with the court of appeals a temporary stay will be granted by the appellate court or by the court in which sentence was passed. The case will then be set down for hearing.

FLIER REPEATS HE SAW THREE ON ICE

Malmgren Mystery Again Brought Sharply to Public's Attention

Moscow, July 25 — The Malmgren mystery was again brought sharply to public attention today when Aviator Chuchnovsky made an official report to the soviet relief commission repeating that he saw three figures on the ice when he located the Malmgren party on an ice floe on Tuesday night, July 10.

This report was made in response to inquiries wirelessed to the Russian ice-breaker Krassin by the Soviet relief commission which is trying to clear up the conflicting reports which were received at the time A. Mariano and V. Zappi—the two survivors of the Malmgren party—were picked up by the Krassin the day after the group had been located by the airman.

Chuchnovsky reiterated his previous declaration that he had seen three human figures on the floe. Two were alive, he said, but the third was lying prone with arms outstretched.

When the Krassin reached the floe only two men—Mariano and Zappi—were found. The erroneous report that Malmgren's body had been taken aboard the ship rose evidently from the aviator's radiogram that he had located the party and that one member was lifeless. After being revived, Zappi told his rescuers that Malmgren had been left alive on the ice at Brock island, at his own request because he had been unable to travel any further.

Cooler Weather to Continue, Is Official Forecast

Directly in contrast to the torrid heat wave which gripped Marion and Ohio last week, the city this week is experiencing a period of pleasant weather.

Following a break in the heat wave over the week-end, the mercury of local thermometers has recorded high marks below the 85 degree mark so far this week. With a prediction of continued fair weather for tonight and Thursday, Marion is expected to enjoy further relief from the rays of Old Sol.

Yesterday local thermometers were reported at 84 while last night the mercury fell to 63 degrees.

Another Step Forward.

It was gratifying to learn of city council's action in sending the two petitions for the improvement of east Center and Main streets to the city solicitor for the preparation of the necessary legislation.

If there is one thing that will help Marion take greater steps forward it is the improvement of the streets in the business section. Regrettably the streets of downtown Marion often linger longer in the minds of the city's visitors than do the scores of fine points of this municipality.

Credit should go not only to the improvement associations that sponsored the petitions for the paving, but also to the property owners who placed their names on the papers. Street improvements cost money and the action of the property owners proves that they have both pride and confidence in Marion.

Traffic Violations.

Council and Chief of Police Thompson have done the proper thing in creating new main thoroughfares, two-way and four-way stop streets.

Traffic daily becomes a greater problem. The chief's statement that his force has orders to arrest every motorist who fails to stop will be approved by every conscientious automobile driver. It is to be hoped that the police are able to nab each violator.

Marion now has a set of traffic lights than which there is no better. They are easy for motorists to see and they are timed well. Failure to obey means just three things—intentional disobedience, carelessness or ignorance, any one of which deserves arrest.

Such is the irony of life. The Marysville Tribune carries an ad for "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." And below the ad for the show is an extra appeal: "Wanted: Sober, reliable truck drivers."

What Do You Do with Spare Time?

Are you waiting till you lose your job before you try out some plans you have for adding to your income?

Riding along so comfortably at present, you think, what's the use of worrying.

You are making as much effort as you care to expend and therefore you refuse to make practical use of your leisure.

Most folk know how to work well and industriously when it is time for the daily grind.

But it takes real gray matter to realize that the spare time, the leisure hours are the most valuable part of the day.

When a man or woman is working at routine, in the thick of a day's rush there is no time to develop new ideas.

But after the day's work, why don't you use that rest period to put over the thing that you profess to believe in as a money-maker?

Your idea may be popular today and by the time you get ready to put it out the public may be out of the notion.

Other and newer interests may be before the public and you did not strike while the iron was hot. Get the market while it is valuable.

It may not last long.

Aroused by statistics that showed business men and executives shirking jury duty, the New York Rotarian club has offered its entire membership to relieve the shortage of competent jurors. This is a movement to which a number of Marion organizations, both male and female, might give their support.

Learn To Swim.

More than a score of Ohioans, including one Marion boy and another in this vicinity, were drowned over the week-end. It is a toll that we are learning to expect several times during the heated months each year.

Twenty dead from drowning! And probably half that number need not have died. The Marion youth, according to a number of reports, might have been saved had any one near him known a method of life-saving.

And this brings to mind that probably the finest part of the program at the Harding Area Boy Scout camp, south of Marion, is the swimming and life-saving work.

Twice a day the Boy Scouts are in the water at the camp. Guarded closely by a half-dozen older boys the scouts learn to handle themselves in the water. And more than that they learn how to save lives under the direction of a young man who has taken a course in life-saving.

How many of that score of lives lost over the week-end in Ohio might have been saved had there been some one near with a knowledge of live-saving!

Parents with growing boys and girls ought to consider as a part of their duty the teaching of their children how to swim, and still better, how to save lives.

But It's Great Crop Weather.

Trying to maintain one's sweetness or disposition while the temperature is flirting with the nineties is a man-sized job, but there is one consolation for those hereabouts who are chronic weather kickers—it's great for corn and oats.

Hot days, cool nights and the proper rainfall—just what central Ohio has experienced for the last two or three weeks—is precisely what the farmers need at this time of the year, if they are to harvest good crops of corn and oats.

Unfortunately, throughout Ohio the wheat crop this year will be no more than twenty per cent. of normal. This is due to the fact that lack of snow last winter caused the wheat to freeze after it was germinated, with the result that the crop this year is well shot. In many sections wheat fields have been plowed under and corn has been planted.

The central Ohio bread basket, however, will be well filled at harvest time. Corn and oats are in splendid shape. Fruit is plentiful. Hay and other forage crops are abundant. And the vegetable crop gives every assurance of being more than normal.

Motorists who have been through this section of the state report that farms are great plains of nodding grain, and that farmers are optimistic of the result, despite the fact that their wheat acreage has gone back on them. It still is possible to get in a corn crop where the wheat failed, and the farmers are taking advantage of this.

Ohio's grape and peach baskets will be well-filled, too, judging by the appearance of the crops along Lake Erie. There is no greater peach or grape country anywhere than the Catawba section of Lake Erie, and reports from that region are that the crop is abundant.

In northwest Ohio where sugar beet growing is the principal farm activity there are indications of a bumper crop. And elsewhere in the state the agricultural situation seems to be in a most healthy condition.

This, coupled with the normal situation among industries—with little or no unemployment anywhere—bespeaks a winter in Ohio with prosperity abundant for those who want to work. One crop may fail—one business may be below normal—but it takes more than a blow of this kind to effect the economic situation of a state with such diversification of industry and agriculture as obtains in Ohio.

If that old "gag" only held true just think how many cameras Photographer Wark must have had smashed in his fifty-nine years.

A Horse of Another Color.

It is considerably beyond reason to claim that Texas, always lopsidedly Democratic, may this year be classed as doubtful. When a state has a plurality of 350,000 for a ticket in 1924, it is impossible that it can change in the interim to such an extent that the opposition party has any chance whatever of being returned a victor.

Nonetheless, there is a sizeable revolt in the Democratic ranks in Texas. Moreover, the bolt from the Democratic ticket may be called more largely southern than Texan. Its ramifications extend into every state of the so-called solid south, and it shows no signs of breaking up. In fact, it shows added strength from day to day.

The southern Democrats are against the party nominee this year because of his avowed wet tendencies. And the southern patronage squabble among the Republicans, beside the wet issue, means nothing to the Dixie Democrats.

And there is a logical reason why the Democrats of the south who are opposed to the Democratic nominee should have a feeling of warmth in their hearts for the Republican nominee. It was Hoover who masterfully brought order out of chaos when the Mississippi valley was flood-stricken, and this has commanded the admiration of the southland, while appealing to its sense of the dramatic.

And with the anti-Smith faction in Texas and elsewhere in Dixie in open revolt against the Democratic ticket, it would not be at all surprising if the Republicans made some serious inroads this fall in sections which have traditionally gone Democratic from the inception of the two-party system of government.

IN THE "MEAN" TIME

Don't Laugh at Mumps!

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

We get no sympathy if we have the mumps. This is one affliction which usually causes our friends to laugh. Of course, this is because the victim looks so funny.

While there is no particular time of year when mumps are not prevalent, yet the spring and fall find this disease almost epidemic among children. Just what causes mumps has not yet been discovered, but it is believed to be a disease of germ origin.

As a rule boys suffer with mumps more than girls and only an occasional adult has it. It is infectious or "catching" and on this account spreads rapidly in a school.

The incubation period, that is, the period between exposure and the first symptom, is from two to three weeks. Then there is a fever. It may be slight or it may rise to 102 or 103 degrees.

The first symptom, even before fever is noticed may be pain below the ear. Then the swelling begins. It starts below the lobe of the ear, forcing the lobe outward. Soon the swelling progresses and spreads to the tissues back of the ear and in front of the ear.

As the trouble progresses, it involves the glands along the jaw and under the tongue. It then passes to the other side of the neck.

This swelling and the soreness and pain caused by it, make eating, or opening the mouth, a very painful process. Accompanying the swelling may be ear ache and some disturbance of hearing. The ear symptoms are not observed in every case.

Many children go through mumps with no other discomfort than that of being the butt of the jokes of the family and friends. They are the lucky ones.

There are sometimes complications such as inflammation of the breast, enlargement of the thyroid gland and swellings of other glands. These are uncommon and need give you no worry.

The chief thing to do in mumps is to keep the affected child from other members of the family. Be sure the bowels move freely, give liquid or semi-liquid diet and keep the patient in bed during the period of the fever. If medicine is required your doctor will prescribe it.

Fortunately mumps rarely recur in the same individual.

Earth Theories.

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

There are two great rival theories concerning the origin of the earth. First, the nebular hypothesis of Laplace, according to which the earth and the other planets were formed through the breaking of vast rings surrounding the condensing sun, the substance of each of these rings being gradually assembled into a globular planet; and, second, the planetesimal hypothesis of Chamberlin, which pictures the planets as originating by the progressive gathering up at nodal points of meteoric matter ejected from the sun at an early stage in consequence of the tidal effects produced by another great star passing near it.

The latter theory assumes that the earth began as a relatively small aggregation of such masses, which became larger and more massive as the process of accretion continued. One consequence of this would naturally be that at first the earth's gravitational power was too feeble to enable it to hold a gaseous atmosphere—just as the moon today is found to be practically airless because of its relative slight force of gravity. But, as the earth grew in size and mass it surrounded itself with an atmosphere such as it retains at present.

The contest between these two hypotheses has not yet been entirely decided, but lately it has been shown that the newest form of the electronic theory of atomic structure tends to support the planetesimal speculation. The argument runs this way:

Certain elements, such as neon and argon, are rare on the earth, while certain others, such as oxygen and nitrogen, are very abundant. Now, neon and argon are gaseous elements which do not readily assume the liquid or solid state at ordinary temperatures, in which respect they differ from the others. So, when the earth was yet relatively small and lacking gravitative power, the neon and argon, which by the electronic theory should have been abundant, because of the stable character of their atoms, failed to take the liquid and solid state—which was readily assumed by the other elements—and so, as the temperature of the growing earth rose and their molecular activity increased, they escaped in the form of gases.

To this it might be replied that in reality Laplace's hypothesis also implies a gradual development of the size and mass of the earth, since the substance of the broken ring from which it is supposed to have been formed would have needed a long time to be gathered into the shape of a densely compacted globe. That ring must have been originally at least 584,000,000 miles in circuit; the globe of the earth is only 8,000 miles in diameter. The gases would have escaped from the nucleus of the transforming ring as readily as from that of the infalling meteors.

But another fact favoring the planetesimal idea is thus stated by Professor W. D. Harkness: "Both chlorine and nickel are mixtures of two different kinds of atoms. Now, it has been found of nickel by Baxter, and of chlorine by Stone and myself, that the composition of each of these mixtures is exactly the same on the earth as it is in meteorites."

All of this shows how it is a mistake which true science decries to insist too absolutely upon any theory. Even facts are mixed things, full of surprises.—Copyright, 1928, International News Feature Service, Inc.

Edouard Lalo—Composer.

BY COZETTE DOUGLASS.

One of the most distinguished of the French composers, Edouard Lalo, was born in Lille on January 27, 1823. Before entering the Paris conservatory in 1839, Lalo studied at the Lille branch of the conservatory under Baumann. On leaving Lille and entering the Paris conservatory, Lalo studied the violin with Habeneck and composition under Schulhoff and Crevecoeur. In 1847 he won the second Prix de Rome.

For several years Lalo led a very retired life, playing the viola in the quartet organized by Armigaud and Jacquard, and during this time he composed a great deal of chamber music.

During 1848 and 1849 he published his first songs which did not attract a great deal of attention. After this he published some chamber music, the reception of which so discouraged Lalo that for several years thereafter he did not compose a single note.

However, his marriage in 1865 to Bernier de Maligny, a contralto singer, stimulated his ambition and he entered an operatic competition, winning the third place with his opera "Fiesque." This opera has never been produced, although at different times it was accepted and almost ready for production when some unforeseen happening prevented the production. The pianoforte score of this opera has been published, and Lalo used parts of it in a later work.

After the Franco-Prussian war Lalo produced some interesting works, one of them being the "Symphonie Espagnole" for the violin and orchestra, which is one of his best known compositions.

Meantime he had not entirely lost interest in dramatic composition, and his second opera, "Le Roi d'Ys," was offered to the opera. However, this was not produced until May, 1888, when it was finally produced by the Opera Comique and its production brought Lalo his first taste of fame.

At the same time he offered "Le Roi d'Ys," which was rejected, the administration of the opera offered him the scenario of a ballet instead. On this work Lalo expended such energy that he fell ill and the last scenes were orchestrated by Gounod.

On the last day of 1888 Lalo was made an officer of the Legion of Honor, having previously been awarded the Prix Monbinne.

Lalo occupies a high place among the French composers. His music is distinguished for its piquant harmony and originality, expressed in the employment of most curious rhythmic devices.

While preparing the opera "La Jacqueria," which was ultimately finished by Arthur Coequard, Lalo died on April 23, 1892.

Success came to Lalo late in life, but he has left a wealth of loveliness in his compositions which are still played by symphony orchestras. —Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, July 25—The business of being a master of ceremony at cabarets, night clubs, theaters and movies has become one of the highest paid jobs in the world of entertainment. Salaries in instances surpass those of stars in the legitimate theater.

Ballyhoo started it with his Chauve Souris slipping in and out and exploding conversation like a bottle of pop. The first American master of ceremony was the blond fetlocked Raymond Hitchcock, who took tickets at his own show and wandered up and down the aisle shaking hands with customers.

The notion added a touch of intimacy the theater had never known. Performers heretofore were to be looked at and heard, but familiarity was taboo. Night clubs and cabarets seized the idea and enlarged it. They picked out celebrities as well as "butter and egg men," and flattered them.

The success of Texas Guinan was in her capitalization of the trick. She attracted heavy spending ringside patronage among those who went there solely to be targets for her sophisticated sallies. They purred to being hailed with: "Hello, Sucker!"

Today in New York there are probably a dozen masters of ceremony whose weekly pay checks are from $1,000 to $5,000. A glorified cinema temple brought the highly exploited Paul Ash from Chicago to Broadway at $2,500 a week for a long engagement. He was little known outside of the Windy City.

Among the most adroit and highly paid ballyhoos are Ben Bernie, Frank Fay, Ed Wynn, Julius Tannen, Dr. Rockwell, Phil Baker, and no benefit is quite complete without Al Jolson or Eddie Cantor to introduce the acts and josh the customers.

In New York—as this is written and according to a theaterical agency—there are 131 masters of ceremony functioning. These include those in Bowery burlesque halls, coffee-houses of the East Side, the Broadway cabarets, night clubs and glorified musical revues.

* * *

The master of ceremony racket is a sop to almost every New Yorker's ache to be noticed. Most of us re lonesomer than we care to dmit, and when someone calls us by name before a big crowd of folk, we have a feeling we are quite a fellow bout town, no matter how hyper-thyroidic we may be. And this attitude is not particularly confined to Manhattan.

* * *

Having been twitted from the rostrum at various times by Ben Bernie, Roger Wolfe Kahn, Eddie Cantor, George White, Texas Guinan, Paul Whiteman, Will Rogers, Al Jolson, Ed Wynn, Julius Tannen, Raymond Hitchcock and Leon Errol, I'm just sappy enough to have received a faint glow out of each incident. And the fellow who says he is not similarly affected I suspect of fibbing.

* * *

About the only section of New York acquiring a Sunday manner is Wall street and surrounding neighborhood. The Sabbatical hush is pronounced, Majestic buildings have a silent grandeur—an efficacy of solemnity a bit saddening. There are people walking slowly among the graves of Trinity and St. Paul's. Pigeons coo and flutter in the canyons and the daily hurrah of the financial world seems far away.

* * *

Several Broadway movie mosques are passing out free copies of morning papers to patrons of their late performances. This helps them to forget.

* * *

The latest in doodads are cameras in colors matching the lady's costume. They resemble an ordinary vanity case, and those who carry them are able to snap their friends without looking like a kodaking tourist.

* * *

One of those Russian performers who will snap into a sitting-down dance at the first wheeze of an accordion got his boot caught in a lady's chair in a cabaret the other night and the lady sat kerplunk on the floor. His escort took a hand in the footwork, and the gentleman will have to stand up for several days, even to eat.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Shaving an Ordeal.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

American men! You do not realize how fortunate you are. You do not appreciate at all the comforts of modern life. You take it all for granted, and indeed often growl because some latest marvel isn't marvelous enough for you. At this particular moment I am thinking of your shaving utensils. Shaving is an absolutely painless operation to you.

But this is far from the case among many of the African tribes. Steel is an unknown commodity to them. But fashion, supreme even in Africa, decrees that the savages have beardless faces, and fashion must be obeyed.

Accordingly, when a youth has reached the age of adolescence, one of the ordeals he must undergo before his admission into the tribal councils is that of having his beard permanently removed. In a number of these tribes this is an important rite, presided over by the witch doctors. In others, however, this is but a necessary duty performed by the father of the youth.

But no matter who is the agent, the operation is a painful procedure. Two sharpened bones are used to grasp each fuzzy hair, and sometimes two weeks or even more elapse before the lad's face is entirely clear of hirsute growth. And then another week or so must pass before the rawness, which is the natural result of the treatment, has worn off.

One advantage that this system has over our civilized method is this: The beard does not grow back after the operation. But how many of you would be willing to undergo the ordeal?

In those tribes, however, where shaving is somewhat as we know it, is the custom, sharpened stones or shells are used to scrape the skin. Naturally the rawness and soreness resulting from this is, at times, almost unbearable, but the savage has become inured to such pain.

But you will still continue to complain about a dull blade! — Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Boy Scouts Gain in Both Brain and Muscle as Camp Life Teaches Them How to Enjoy Work as Well as Play

BY KARL R. McELROY
Star Staff Writer

It has been said "that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," but nothing has been said about mixing the two of them up so that play cannot be distinguished from work, or vice versa.

That is the case at Camp John A. Graves, where Boy Scouts of Harding Area gather each summer for a period of general good times as well as camping.

Under the direction of Scout Executive W. C. Brown and a staff of assistants, activities of the scouts are mapped out so that everything done brings about development of some mental or physical part of the boy.

Most persons would not consider swimming much of a job but would take it gladly as a pleasure. This little task, however, brings about development of the muscles, while life saving instruction boosts the mental side of the youth.

New Feature

One new feature added to the camp this year, which to many is considered one of the best, is the handicraft lodge, or in the parlance of the street, a workshop. When the new dining hall was completed, scouts converted the old structure into the shop of the camp where scouts complete work for merit badges.

At the present time equipment in the handicraft lodge is not complete but many kinds of tools are being received from parents of scouts in Harding Area. It is planned next year to add a wood lathe. A power emery wheel is also needed. In addition to several work benches, vises and carpenter tools, a forge and anvil complete the equipment.

Inspection Thorough

Cleanup work around the lodges is made a pleasure when the prospects of winning the inspection loom bright. Every afternoon, just before assembly around the flag pole, Executive Brown and Assistant Camp Director Jack Melvin make a tour of inspection of all the lodges. If a piece of paper big enough to be seen with a magnifying glass is located it is just too bad, for off goes a point. The water in the bucket must be so high, the bathing suits and towels on the clothesline must be straight and off goes a few more points if a few spent matches or a little debris is located within a radius of 20 feet from the lodge.

Inside the sleeping quarters the bunks must be made just so, while a string outside the shoes causes another point to be lost. However, only a few of the lodges ever fall below 80 points and are not allowed to swim the next morning.

Lively Contests

Physical development comes in again for a big boost late in the afternoon when various lodges clash for recreation and volleyball championships.

A large watermelon is the usual award to the lodge winning the treasure hunt. This may seem something easy but only a few manage to follow a dimly laid trail for several miles over hills and through woods.

Training in merit badge work develops the mind and quite a few scouts are aiming to be in the Eagle rank before camping season closes.

Everything seems to be just one round of organized play after another, but the motive behind the entire program is to develop scouts of the Harding Area into four-square men.

Ritzy Rosalie

Rosalie had pulled out her trunk preparatory to going on a week-end jaunt, but since securing the new wardrobe case which is so commodious, she is debating with herself the necessity for using the large piece of luggage. Six dresses; two hats, shoes, hosiery, and lingerie can be compactly carried in the wardrobe case. Another new bag which Rosalie has secured is a grip with a slipper fastener which comes in handy on many occasions. Both bags are being used for airplane travel.

ROADSIDE REPAIRS MENACE TO TRAFFIC

Warning to Motorists in Statement by Auto Club Secretary

A warning against careless use of highways in making motor car repairs was issued by Mrs. D. V. Gallagher, secretary of the Marion Auto Club, today.

"With the touring season in full swing throughout the country, motorists should exercise particular caution," the secretary states.

"Now that millions of cars are traveling the highways up and down the nation, the frequency of stopping for roadside repairs, naturally, is greater," Mrs. Gallagher points out. "This occurs usually in an emergency which demands that the work must be done at once in order to proceed. A puncture should be remedied where it happens, if at all possible, since driving on the flat tire causes considerable damage to it. Mechanical troubles likewise are of an emergency character. There is no questioning the necessity for the repairs, but they should be made with sufficient caution.

"The first thing to do is to get the car altogether off the road or as far off as practicable. The danger of working alongside a heavily traveled highway is obvious, yet too many persons are negligent in this respect. The next step is to see that the car itself is properly placed. If on even a slight grade, a good-sized stone should be placed behind the front or rear wheels so that the car will not move unexpectedly. This advice may sound elementary, yet accidents from its disregard show that it is often ignored.

"Care in pathing to make repairs by the side of the road is doubly a safety measure. First of all, it is a protection to the motorist who has had the misfortune of having to stop for them, and, for that reason, he should be cautious. But beyond that, caution is a protection for all other traffic, for a car jutting into the roadway is almost certain to create a dangerous obstacle for passing cars. On many highways it means that two lines of traffic cannot pass, and a head-on collision is almost inevitable. "Bearing these factors in mind, no motorist can afford to be careless."

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

"A BAD LOT, such as her, and I hope you'll take warning. Have nothing to do with them. Your poor father knew their kind."

Mrs. Briggs had gone now and Agnes was going over her story; making an object lesson for it of her girls.

"I saw her once with my own eyes flying through Main st., in that gaudy car with a cigarette in the side of her mouth. Flaunting her shame in the faces of decent ones."

"Gee, I'd like to've seen the faces of the decent ones," Kitten chuckled. "There was a show I'll bet you."

"That will do,Kathryn. Emmy—" rather wistfully, the old habit of meekness asserting itself through the newer bitterness, "You'd not be taken in by them?"

"There's the boy running with Stella. Rich young fellows mean no good to poor girls. Those you meet at Frances' now, they're not like that?"

Emily had a quick vivid impression of the blase-eyed Coles, his bloodiness, his slightly foreign trick of bending from the waist and kissing her hand, the flattering attention he paid her.

He was, she understood vaguely, what her father would have called one of "those swells." At least there was wealth somewhere about him and family. World Frances Haiden call him an aristocrat?

She thought about it so long that Agnes began, "I asked you, Emmy—"

"Of course, darling. I was just thinking. The ones I meet all work. Not in shops like father, but they do different things. They're not like Skeets Bradley."

Kitten went to the window and made certain signals to Dottie Brent, peeping through the hedge. Silently as a shadow she slipped from the room and Emily saw the two of them going away down the road moving faster as they got from sight.

"Where do they go so much, Mus? Kitten's never home. Don't you think—"

"There, now, don't be hard on the child. No harm in her frolicking. Never a word for me, Kitten has—"

That was true enough, Emily thought. Her sister usually managed to get what she wanted with no words at all. But she insisted, "You don't think they've gone out with Glossie Gaines? I've told Kitten—well, Flossie is a little wild, Muz. Not a good influence."

"No fear of that, dear. Kitten is an innocent lamb."

What use argument? Muz had changed these last years. Things she once had forbidden her elder daughted to do she now looked upon as rather clever in the younger girl. She allowed herself to be coaxed and jollied and bullied into things she used to frown upon.

Emily would have to take care of Kitten herself she decided. She would have to assume that burden and carry it alone.

Agnes was looking at her now with little movements about her mouth. Wishing to speak of something which seemed to her important—to make it appear a casual, by-the-way thing. That would be Marty. Emily almost knew how she would begin:

M'arty Nolan's a fine lad, Emmy. There's one works hard; a boy of your own class. Your poor father would like Marty."

Today she ventured a protest despite the almost certain tears it would bring. "But I don't care so much about one of my own class Mus. And Marty doesn't either; he's climbing out of it as fast as he can. I sort of think that's the way people are, to want something better than they begin with. That's what we're put in the world for, to progress."

"But poor folks can't be having all they'd like, baby. The good Lord puts us here to bear the brunt and it's flying in the face of Providence to set yourself up against your betters, like."

"They're not my betters, Mus. Nor yours, nor Kitten's. Why should they be? Just because they've got money and fine homes and have other people work for them? Does that make them better than us?

"Why, the only ones better are those who are nobler—oh, Mus—please—"

Infinitely pathetic, Agnes putting her hand up—it shook a little and the ropes were very knotted along the back—brushing tears away. So gray, so defeated, beaten down by life.

Emily went to her, arms out, ran her hands along the tired face. "Emmy wouldn't hurt you, darling. Well, I only wanted to make you feel we're good as anyone. Don't now—see, I'm going to make a cup of tea."

She made it very strong after the manner of Agnes herself, and brought it in on a tray.

Agnes felt better after the second cup. But she began one of her endless reminiscences. It was all about Steve; the life they had shared. He was a kind man, she said.

"No kinder ever lived than Steve Day though he was always one for talking a good bit. Ah well, the world goes so; ones die and are buried and others live on."

She saw him now, Emily understood, as a gentle, self-denying husband. Time and forgetfulness were beginning to glorify the years they had lived together. Criticism and shiftlessness, all the hard things, were being softened and glossed over and somehappiness Agnes once had cherished thing, perhaps a beautiful dream of before life snatched it from her, now was being realized in her own thought.

A sad thing that happiness must be only an illusion to this woman who had sacrificed so much, given herself so generously to the needs of others.

Emily felt that catch her heart, release through her an impulse like a rush of tears. She could do one thing to make this a little more right, she could promise herself that never because of her should more sorrow come to this mother. What did it matter what she might wish for to do? Even marry Marty, if Marty wished to marry Emily Day. Oh, anything! That much in return for all Agnes had suffered. She could be that strong—yes. Vow that—easy, after all.

She made her vow, silently, standing there with her arms about the drooping shoulders.

Stella came for her in the evening and asked her to take a walk.

They went down to the River road, loitered before the entrance of Highcliffe.

"Do you ever hear from Kent, Em?"

"No. Didn't expect that. Everything changes, Stell."

"I suppose so," gloomily. "Even those that don't go away. Skeets is out with Bess Tourney tonight."

Emily saw then that Stella's hands were clenched and she was choking back sobs.

"Oh, what do you care, dear? Skeets is the way he is; one girl today and another tomorrow."

That's no comfort. He's—he's got to come back! I—it's just—I'm a fool, I suppose, but I love him! Couldn't help it—oh, all of them are rotten. What am I going to do Can't stand this—"

Emily slipped her hand in Stella's and they walked on beyond the Grainger place under the arching trees, out toward the looming dark of North Mountain.

Tailored Trend Prevails in New Fur Coats, Expert Informs Local Women

BY HALLIE HOUCK

"SMARTLY dressed women in New York and Chicago are setting a style mode this season for extremely tailored coats of black pony, caracul, seal and other black furs which will adapt themselves to a tailored trend," was the statement made yesterday by N. Litke, representative from Simon Levy & Sons, N. Y., while here to display his stock to buyers for the local retail trade.

The women of Marion who are in the market for fur coats this year will revel in the new adaptations of the furs and this new tailored note.

Buying Under Way

Already a great many of the women here are buying their furs for the winter and it is noticeable that those who are following closely the dictates of the style centers are getting away from the larger fox fur collars and cuffs.

The new "johnnie" collars are really more attractive than the older-style huge long-furred collars. They are a stand-up collar, as a rule of the same material as the coat, and some are notched. Notched collars are the last word in fur coats this year.

Skins used in coats this year are of a much better grade, because of the tailored style which does not necessitate such a lavish use of the pelts.

Many persons may doubt that this tailored mode can be so chic as has been described but for those doubters it would be well that they slip into one of the tricky little cambers of black carucul and then strut before a full length mirror for a few minutes. They'll turn away convinced that never before has such a smart fur style been set.

This new style decree will be welcomed with sighs of relief by the stylish stouts who have up until this time refrained from buying a fur coat because of the current belief, which was true, that fur coats enlarge one's appearance a great deal.

Those newer coats now being shown are of short-haired soft skins, and with their slim lines and complete absence of any unnecessary trimmings, will slenderize in a most flattering way.

"Fur coats are really beginning to have as much style and favor as the fur-trimmed cloth coat," was the reply to a question asked of Mr. Litke.

Not All Conservative

Of course, for the ete nal collegiate, there are handsome raccoons displayed, lined with plaids that would make the Scotch affairs look conservative and pony coats, black, deep brown and golden brown. Opposum coats will be worn this season, although raccoon still reigns supreme as the coat which symbolizes the spirit of youth.

And linings must not be overlooked. Some are of plain tied silk crepes and others are of heavily embroidered patterned silks. One coat which was particularly attractive was cut as delightful when the inside was seen. Following the modernistic trend to the nth degree, the design on the lining was pyramided up of appliqued circles and squares.

Squirrel coats which have always been popular for both daytime and evening wear, continue to reign. Mink is a luxurious fur, and is growing each year in place with lovers of fine furs.

For the more conservative buyer, who must see in a display of collars and cuffs that she's getting her money's worth, furriers are continuing to keep in stock some coats with large collars and cuffs. These coats are attractive, but when seen beside the plainer, tailored short-haired creations, they appear a bit "overdone."

The Heart Story of a Womans Lasting Affections

Harry Underwood and Dicky Plan a Luncheon

IT took all the courage I possessed to present an unruffled front to Harry Underwood's announcement that Dicky had had a sudden summons to the city. But as it was only the corollary of the luncheon invitation he just had given Lillian and me, I was enabled to give my acceptance a cordial and care-free air, ignoring the more significant news.

"What a perfectly harming arrangement!" I exlaimed. "I 'accept with pleasure.' Don't you, Lillian?"

"Yes, if it doesn't take two long," she said practically. "Remember, we've got a lot of shopping to do. But I have a great idea. We'll time our visit to the hotel near luncheon. Then we either can eat in the dining room—really they serve a very good meal, or there are three splendid restaurants within a block, a French, an Italian and a famous old one dating back a couple of generations."

"Oh, yes, Darragh'e," her husband chimed in. "Well, then, we'll meet you at the hotel lounge—when?"

Lillian reflected a few seconds.

"We get in at nine-thirty, and we'll go uptown first to select one or two things which no girl can be happy without and which we can best get at a certain Fifth Avenue shop," she said. "That errand accomplished, we'll get as much more done as possible before eleven-thirty. It will take fifteen minute to reach the hotel, fifteen minutes to give the suite the once over, fifteen more minutes for Madge and me to primp and drag it over the gridiron. That brings us to twelve-fifteen. Suppose yu meet us then with the intention of lunching at twelve-thirty. As we'll take that earliest train in the morning, we shall need an early lunch even though fortified by one of Katie's breakfasts."

"I doubt it," Dicky said, speaking for the first time since the discussion of the hotel suite began. I suspected that he had been waiting for some subject absolutely unrelated to his capitulating change of plan for me. "I always feel like a stuffed anaconda by the time she gets through serving me before a journey."

"I never knew you to refuse a second helping," Harry Underwood told him, dodging out of the door as he spoke. Dicky followed him with a celerity betraying his anxiety to end the interview and as the door closed after him, Lillian sat down precipitately in the nearest chair and laughed silently but heartily until literal tears stood in her eyes. Dicky's summons to the city had effectually robbed me of any inclination to hilarity, but her mirth was so infectious that I soon found myself laughing with her, though reluctantly.

"If there's anything funnier than a man," she gasped at last, wiping her eyes.

"There isn't—except a woman," I countered glumly.

"Come out of the sunshine," she commanded briskly. "You ought to be a whole army with business in your own person. I never saw a more complete right-about-face than the Dicky-bird has accomplished. Though I told you a little white lie just now in the matter of the little position of 'nurse boy' that Harry has lined up for Dicky. The Chinese to be your nurse, I said I could see the [illegible] and I would see that [illegible] Dicky [illegible] to the [illegible]

"You think," I said, astonished, "that it was a planned stunt?"

"No thinking about it, I know," Lillian answered with decision. "The Dicky-bird badly needed an excuse for climbing down from his perch, so he appealed to Harry—they've always been as offensive and defensive allies, you know, and Harry staged the little comedy. And I'm sure the hotel apartment will be to your liking, even if I did throw a few objections for the reduction of their colossal masculine conceit. We'll look it over tomorrow morning, and I'm sure you'll love it. Do you realize that we'll be next door neighbors, old dear? I'm looking forward to a most enjoyable winter."

"So am I," I returned, trying to equal her cheery heartiness of tone. But I wondered if her heart held a reservation of unhappy uncertainty, akin, though for a different reason, to my uneasiness concerning Edith Fairfax.

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I only thought it rained night before last. Last night it really rained. I bet if Jonah had been around with his ark last night almost everybody in the world would of wanted to buy a ticket. The thunder woke me up and I could hear the rain coming down like somebody was pouring it on the house out of a bucket as big as the world. But there wasn't a cloud this morning. I'll bet the fellas on the ark had a dandy time with all the animals and the whole ark all lit up at night. We have got one of the ark lights up on a pole a couple of blocks from here. My grandfather told me it was an ark light and he is such a liar I thought he might be mistaken so I asted my father one night when we were on our way to Younkses and he said: "That's an ark light." So I guess the flood couldn't of been so very long ago.

When I had let Jubilee down and had done all the rest of the things I have to do every morning, and we were taking the cows out, the ditches were so full of water that in some places the water reached all the way across the road, and when we got to the culvert the water was roaring along through it like a railroad train. And the bunch wanted to go in swimming and go through the culvert, but the water almost came to the top of it and I told them nothing doing.

If they are going to be my bunch I am not going to let them take any chances. They didn't dast to tell me I was scairt because I went through it once when it was full, so the Last Rag of Tripe said I was scairt to drag down into the manhole in the street and come out at the end of the culvert, and they all thought that would be a good trick so they said I was scairt and they dasted me. So I took something out of my pocket and said there to Younkses to hold and she asked me what to do it, but there was some reason a fella has to do it if I tell you so and then went through the culvert to the end of the culvert and I was all right and I told them to go through and they went through and they were all right and I told them to go through and they went through and they were all right and I told them to go through and they went through and they were
